Double Ration Tea For Miners

"Rationing offices in Edmonton and Calgary are prepared to take care of issuing extra coupon sheets for tea or coffee to miners in Alberta," states C. G. McKee, regional supervisor of rationing. By order of the rationing administrator, Wartime Prices and Trade Board, double ration of tea or coffee will be given to soft coal miners working underground. No extra allowance of sugar is made.

To obtain extra rations, mine unions will collect the ration books of underground miners, forward them with the miner's name, union number and ration book number, to the nearest office of the Board, Williamson Building, Edmonton, or Burns Building, Calgary. An extra coupon sheet will be inserted and the book returned to the office for redistribution.

Any miners not belonging to a union may obtain the extra ration by sending his book to the nearest ration office, with the address of the mine where he is working, and a letter from his employer stating that he is engaged in underground operations.

Mack Stigler, secretary of the union, has posted notices calling for the ration books of all miners by Friday, Nov. 20.

HOME FROM BRITAIN

SGT. L. S. RICHARDS who arrived back in Coleman for a furlough after being in Britain for the past two years. Sgt. Richards was born during the first week of the war in September, 1939, with the 13th Army Field Co., R.C.E., and went overseas in August, 1940. He has gained rapid promotion and before leaving Britain had completed examinations on an officer's course. He landed in Montebello, Quebec, when his wife and parents received a wire that he was about to leave for the west.

His wife and young daughter, together with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Richards, are now living in Coleman, where he was to report Tuesday morning to Currie Barracks. The entire party returned home this morning, where Sgt. Richards will spend a well earned furlough.

Cigarette Fund Notes

Thanks for the very welcome cigarettes—J. M. Hogan.

Received the one pound of pipe tobacco two weeks ago and was glad to receive it. Thanks a million. Tobacco and cigarettes are hard to get from Canada at the present time. I have received two pounds of pipe tobacco since July 10. Everything else O.K.—Sgt. W. S. Vollendorf.

Received your very welcome parcel of cigs yesterday. These cigs have been and are very regularly had and are always looking forward to them now. I want to thank you for your sincerest thanks to all others and especially the members of the Legion and the ladies branch, who make this treat possible for us. I am still with the Can. Army Headquarters, Lawrence Caroe is also with Army troops and we see quite a lot of each other. Thanks again for the cigs—O. Hirsch.

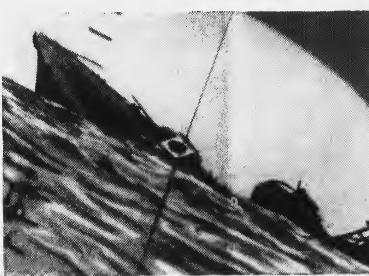

Dear Friends: Many thanks for the cigarettes. I appreciate your generosity. You are sure giving us boys something to be thankful for. Thanks again—Geo. Evans.

Many thanks for cigs. I am lying in hospital having had an operation for rupture but I am getting along fine now. Won't see the boys till around Christmas and will arrange to have a photo of the gang taken for Legion—Bert Murray.

way House. Thinking of him wandering through the mountains, trying to find a way across the country to Mexico, scared her. She called his name in a whisper, but he did not hear; but as she stood there with the silence of the forest pressing down, she sensed that unseen eyes watched her. The feeling persisted, was disturbing; she peered into the gloom beneath the pines and finally glimpsed a figure some 30 yards away. It was no more than a glimpse, for the figure disappeared instantly, but it was enough to recognize the scare-crow figure of the man named Jud. Anne watched the vicinity a moment later and saw the yellow dog. Wolfie had been for some strange reason, man and dog had been spying on her and were now trying to slip away without being seen.

The gloom and intense silence of the trees suddenly pulled against her eyes. She quickly turned back toward the clearing, puzzling over Jud's queer behavior, but forgetting him on reaching the cleared place by the lake. Erich was there, calmly eating his lunch, and she felt an instant relief.

The girls were departing that evening, but two new ones arrived while Anne was away from Halfway House. There was a smart young sport coupe parked in the drive when she returned in mid-afternoon, and two girls were in the region.

The names were Mrs. Margaret Leland and Miss Rhea Marshall, and the two women were from Detroit.

Anne's father looked pleased with the two new guests.

"They wanted a whole suite of rooms," he said. "The old man, Mrs. Leland, said she simply couldn't be coped up in one room. She was very much annoyed when I told her there wasn't a suite to be had at Halfway House for love nor money. She actually left the place. I think it was her niece's idea coming here. The niece by the way, is the daughter of the president of Marshall Motors and very beautiful."

"Perhaps," Anne said unconcernedly, "the girl is trying to get away from it all."

She went up to her room to change from her riding clothes. She had no idea that she would shortly regret taking the girl, Rhea Marshall, so lightly.

Rhea Marshall was, as Drew Lowry said, beautiful. Anne admitted that to herself, meeting the girl at dinner, Rhea Marshall was regally tall, divine of figure, and she had dark hair and languorous blue-black eyes. Her features and skin were delicate, her red lips had a slow, attractive gleam over gleaming white teeth when she smiled. She had charm, beautiful poise, but Anne suspected it might be hard to like her.

Meeting Anne, the dark girl said,

CHILDREN'S COLDS

FOR DIRECT RELIEF from miseries of colds—coughing, phlegm, irritation, clogged upper respiratory tract, chest and back with Vicks VapoRub. Its pain-and-vapor action brings relief without doubt.

ALSO, FOR HEAD COLD "smiles" and relief of VapoRub in hot water. Then have the child breathe in the steaming vapors.

VICKS VAPORUB

"You have a charming place here, Miss Lowry. Your father tells me you are the managing hand behind it. It's so clever of you."

"It's the opposite, and it's rather dull," Anne said. "I mean, I can't imagine a girl as attractive as you like a place hidden away like Halfway House."

"On the contrary," said Rhea Marshall, and let it go at that. She was smiling with some private thought that made her dark eyes light up.

The Harmonys were leaving that evening, and Anne was driving them into town to the train. Shortly after, Anne and Rhea were packing their luggage out to the station wagon. Burke returned to tell her that there was a man outside who wanted to talk with her. Anne went out and found the shabby Jud lunging again the fender of the car, his dog beside him. He was smiling and smiled ingratiatingly, but with the lump tobacco made in his one cheek it was more lewd than smile.

He muttered, "Howdy, ma'am. Sure is kind of you to talk to me. I was just passing by, and it looked so bright and cheerful here I felt like stopping."

"Would you like something to eat, you and your dog?"

"Well, that would be mighty kind of you." He rubbed a dirty hand over an aching chin. "But I was hoping you might make me a loan, say, of $50."

"Fifty dollars!" Well, really—is there any reason why I should loan you money? After all, I'm not rich and I don't know you well."

"It's like this, ma'am," he said hoarsely. "I've got to do you a favor in return. I could keep my mouth shut like I been doing since I saw that fellow hide away in your car the other night at Sand Flat. That fellow who was riding with your party last night?"

"Only he wasn't dressed up when I saw him the other night. He was wearing clothes like prisoners sometimes wear."

That hit Anne like a physical blow. Her alarm must have showed on her face, for nothing more smile was born. She fought for control.

"Don't you see anything, Jud," she said. "But I might be able to make you a small loan. I'll give you $20."

She opened her handbag, and just as she was about to hand over the money she glanced up toward the verandah and saw Rhea Marshall standing there a witness to that blackmail.

Wear Battledress

CIVILIAN SUITS IN BRITAIN TO BE MADE OF SAME CLOTH

The day may come when the civilian men of Britain, like their soldier brothers, will be wearing battledress.

Tailoring firms agree that as old stocks of fine cloth become exhausted and labor for specialized tailoring becomes scarce, the lounge suit must give place to a battledress type of suit.

"Our stocks of fancy cloth are getting low and cannot be replaced," the manager of a large London firm said. "Our factories are turned over to battle-dress and our production is colossal. We cannot get the tailored lounge suit made for customers in less than seven weeks."

A BETTER WAY... to a Brighter Day

GOOD FOOD IS GOOD SENSE. Never before has it been more important for you to buy wisely and eat well. Today, good health is an essential duty. And good food is essential to good health.

Include KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN in your "must" list. Remember, ALL-BRAN is more than a delicious, nourishing cereal. It's also a grand, laxative food that provides a "better way" to avoid constipation caused by the lack of the proper amount of "bulk" in the diet. But remember, ALL-BRAN doesn't work like harsh cathartics. It takes time.

Eat ALL-BRAN in tasty breakfast muffins or as a crunchy cereal every day... drink plenty of water... and see if you don't agree that ALL-BRAN is a better way to a brighter day!

Buy ALL-BRAN at your grocer's in either of the two conveniently sized packages. Order it in the individual serving package at restaurants. Made by Kellogg's at London, Canada.

Tactful Tactics

Two colored men were discussing things in general. One was telling how he'd just got a job as a Pullman porter and that his conductor had told him he must treat the passengers with tact. "What are dis here tact stuff?" he wanted to know.

"Let me enlighten you Intellect, brother," said the wiser and wiser darkie. "Our Ah was workin' at de Waldorf hotel. One day, Ah was cleanin' up and happens to open a bathroom door and dere was a lady sittin' in de tub.

"Ah shudde de door quick and Ah says 'Beg yo' pardon, suh!'

"Well, dat 'beg yo' pardon, was jes' politeness, but de 'suh' dat was tact."

NOTES AND COMMENTS*Is It Daylight Saving?

The result of daylight saving in this town somewhat interesting. It is not full daylight till at least 8:30, and for another month or more the days will shorten. There are some stores open prominently at 8 a.m., but there are others, as well as one-man places, which are not so prompt. There still lingers the thought that it really isn't 8 a.m. and for that reason, why open the place before daylight? The stores are open an hour earlier than daylight saving time, though in many places they have put the opening time back a half hour or an hour to suit local conditions, for we burn lights in the morning when we arrive at work and we burn them before we leave.

"Conchie" Given Two Months at Hard Labor

Police Magistrate K. G. Craig sentence a young Hutterite to two months hard labor at Lethbridge jail for neglecting to appear for medical examination on being notified. The young man, a conscientious objector, when first advised, wrote in stating his objections to the authorities. He was told that he was to be sent to the army, but that he must appear for the medical exam. Following that, if called for military service, he could then state his objections. As he did not appear for his examination, he was sentenced. The maximum sentence is 12 months or a fine of $200 or both.

The young man's objections were on religious grounds, and he wrote in when first advised to appear, giving quotations from the Bible to uphold his conscientious objections to military service.

One has a degree of sympathy for a really conscientious objector, who would not be down-trodden by the strong if this form of objection to military service prevailed, including the conscientious objectors. Religious faith would not save them from Hunarian barbary or Japanese heat, the main point being the freedom which Democracy enables us to, therefore, we must fight in its defense against those that would destroy it.—MacLeod Gazette.

Show Your Knowledge—Or Ignorance

Radio quiz programs are interesting. Most of the questions are quite simple, and of the type that a child with the most elementary education should be able to answer. Yet many adults attending these programs display appalling ignorance. A woman was asked what grew from an acorn. After much stalling she replied it might be corn on the cob. This is a sample of answers that may be given to questions of even the most ordinary things. Another interesting sidelight on the much debated point as to how many listen to radio programs was furnished by the broadcast of a breakfast food from a Calgary station. Family times were planned and out of several messages received by telephone from the broadcasting studio during the half hour program, asking the people if they were listening to this particular program, six replied that they were not. The one person who was listening was asked if he knew the tune that was being played, he replied that he didn't.

If this is a fair average of listeners to any particular program, and it likely is, excepting such highlights as the Jack Benny and Fred Allen programs, or the C.C.T. shows, then commercial programs over the radio are being heard by possibly ten per cent. of the population.

The Part That Newspapers Play

If the public knew the amount of free space which is given by newspapers throughout Canada to help publicize and create interest in the war, it would be more forthcoming. The fact would be forcibly demonstrated of the vital part they play in arousing the national consciousness. At Ottawa a record was kept and the free space given was shown by the papers having been clipped and made up into a very bulky volume for the information of the national War Finance Committee and others.

Why Not a Combined Appeal?

A general impression gained ground that appeals for the Red Cross, Salvation Army, Canadian Legion and many other war services were to be merged. This was partly true, yet all these came in call for the Red Cross and another for the Salvation Army, each very deserving of public support.

Yet, the impression having gone abroad that there was only to have been one combined appeal, there was question by some whether there should be three appeals. It is not the intention to argue the merits of otherwise of these separate appeals, but rather to point out that much time would be saved if there were just the one campaign.

Apple Day, for the Boy Scouts and Pioneers, Day, for such small individual donations, and there would be no point in combining these, as the boys and girls rustle around and raise the necessary funds. It is repeated touches that make a difference, especially when oftentimes have to do a lot of explaining to break down the reluctance to give. Moreover, it is usually the same group who are called on to do the collecting, until they become weary of the job through repetition.

With this in mind, if everyone would make time to do these things. But there will always be workers and skirkers.

Japan---Our Toughest Opponent

By S/L R. M. WYND

Orientals and the Oriental way has always been a mystery to the Occidental; and of all the Oriental countries, Japan has presented to the "Whit" the greatest difficulty of comprehension. Much has been written about her history and customs. Unfortunately the most popular books from a public viewpoint, have been written by authors who have actually spent little time in the country. What has been written about her history and customs, few years out there hesitate to invoke themselves in writing of the complications and contradictions of the Japanese race.

It understand them properly, to be able to predict their actions, and reactions, one would have to forget completely all the training, reasoning and outlook of our race, and start afresh from the Oriental point of view. If one figured every thing out in exactly the opposite way to ours, one would be much closer to the Japanese mind and its reasoning and working.

Less than one hundred years ago, Japan was an isolated country, content to live unto herself. Several attempts had previously been made by various European countries to open her to commerce, but all these trials had been failures, some even disasters. In 1863, Commodore Perry of the United States Navy sailed his ship into Yedo (now Tokyo) and at the point of his cannon, forced a treaty with the ruler of Japan. The Japanese have always resented this means of forcing open their country to Western civilization, and have been determined that no repetition of this incident would ever occur again.

Once, however, the Treaty had been signed, the door of the country was open to Foreign influence. Japan adapted herself quickly and made rapid strides in the development of industries. This adaptation was peculiar to Japan, instead of adapting herself to the Western world, she took what she needed and desired from Western of Victory and conquest, and the fruits had netted her considerable gain. She became an Empire, with the acquisition of Korea, Formosa and the chain of islands extending southwards down the Pacific. Her ambitions now were boundless and the belief grew, and was fostered that she was destined to conquer and rule the Eastern hemisphere later the whole world. The religion of the country fostered the idea. According to it, the divinity of the Emperor was established—he being a direct descendant of the Sun Goddess, and in consequence the whole race was divinely lead and inspired. The rest of the world must be taught to believe and respect that fact. She began to plan for further expansion in terrain further afield.

The war of 1914-18 gave her industries a tremendous impetus, they all flourished and expanded. She had one primary advantage over all other countries in the Western hemisphere, her low cost of labour. This is to us, synonymous with a low standard of living, but in Japan's case this is not altogether true. The Japanese have always been a frugal race. Their diet consists primarily of rice, vegetables, and fish, all items easily obtainable in the country. Their costs of living were low and in consequence their rate of pay was in keeping with this low cost of living. The basic wages compared with ours are scandalously low, but they are quite sufficient to meet the daily requirements of the ordinary Japanese.

This low cost of living and the low wages give Japan the initial jump on her competitors from other countries in the markets of the world. Many of these she gained exclusively for herself at our expense—notably those in South America, and in India she developed a business that seriously undermined Britains. She built up her merchant marine to carry her wares until in size she competed with the largest in the world. In 1934 she had 3,365 of the world's tonnage, totalling 3,811,773 tons and its size has been increasing greatly since then.

With conquest in mind and in her blood, after the Russo-Japanese War, Japan launched a programme of economic warfare throughout the world, always with the dream of world conquest in the background, she devised and executed a scheme of infiltration of her Nationals into other countries as the preliminary movement in the plan. One need only look back and realize now the success of this plan by taking the example of this is our continent in the areas of U.S. west coast, and southern California. These Nationals flowed freely until curtailed by immigration restrictions. These immigrants settled in these new lands and gradually took over certain specified lines of endeavor to the exclusion of the Whites. By the time we awoke to the dangers involved, it was too late, colonies had become established, and once established, their high birth rate assured their survival and even expansion. What happened on our west coast was repeated in different parts of the world—particular emphasis being placed on those lands and countries bordering upon the Pacific ocean, South America, Mexico, China, Indo-China, Burma, etc. Australia is the only country of any size without an internal Japanese problem, for she is the only one that barred immigration right from the very beginning. The she is a very imminent external one at the present time is in a measure due to the fact that the Japanese have always much resented this attitude on her part.

With the establishment of these colonies abroad, Japan furthered her markets and expansion in the regions so selected. She obtained valuable information regarding the countries concerned, about the customs and habits of the residents, and of course what was most valuable, their weaknesses. She seemed to specialize on all marine activities and occupations, such as fishing, logging, etc., and in this way her Nationals gained a very complete knowledge of the various coastlines.

\ All this now appears to be a part of a very well laid end definite long-range plan. As long as fifty years ago, well known Japanese general laid down the precepts and predicted the name whereby the plan could be executed. The United States has always been considered the big stumbling block by the Japanese, as is natural, with the power and resources available to her and the fact that she was the only such power to be lapped by the waters of the Pacific. This general predicted that at some future date the United States would find herself embroiled in a war with some European power, and with her attention so diverted, it would be Japan's opportunity to strike and gain for herself a foothold in Asia first which she could then progress until she had control of the whole of Asia and India. With the manpower that would then be available to her she could commence to plan for world domination.

The spirit of conquest is a national spirit in Japan. Each individual believes in it and in the destiny of Japan. It is taught in all schools and so instilled in the minds of the people that it has arrived at the stage where it is now accepted without question. The emperor as stated before, is the Supreme Being, the direct representative of God on Earth. His word, his law and his orders are carried out without question. "The gods of Japan will never permit this land to be defeated," is a saying commonly heard in Japan. Their religion preaches this and all accept it as a fact. This belief is of fanatical nature. There is no argument about it. The race is divine and therefore cannot be conquered. An individual may die in fighting for Japan, but such death is only a sacrifice to the honor of his life in the hereafter, but such sacrifice assures the preservation of the country as a whole. Every Japanese will willingly lay down his life for the sake of his country. We are at present fighting a nation, each individual of which is imbued with the idea that death on the battlefield is an honor and a sacrifice to his emperor and god, a gift to the country furthering the way towards a divinely assured victory.

Individually the Japanese can be charming, ingratiating and truly remarkable hosts. In strife however, they are tough, grim and cruel. They have no conception of fair play such as we are however, in view of the nature of this nation. We must appreciate the fact that we are locked in strife with a foe that will stoop to anything and everything to gain his victory. Their tactics thus far in this war prove them to be wily adversaries.

They think and plan in a different way to ours. Don't let this fool you though, for with the training they have had from our schools and institutions, they are well trained to think as we do too. In other words they know our minds, but we don't know theirs. To them our minds and actions are simple; governed by a set of laws and regulation. We react to situations in a well defined manner, for our regulations and laws are direct. They have studied and know these regulations of ours, so it is a comparatively simple matter to translate them into terms of action. Until we depart radically from the German track and start to make mistakes for trick, underfeet and a lot of cunning into our methods of handling and coping with them, we shall be at a disadvantage, for they will know in advance what our reaction to a situation will be. The Japanese have only one goal in this war, how that end is attained matters not a whit. The goal is to be able to parade up to the Emperor and hand him a lacquer platter embossed with the sixteen Imperial petals of the Chrysanthemum, the complete surrender of the Anglo-Saxon race.

To defeat them is going to be a tough assignment, harder by far many believe than the subjugation of the Germans, as individuals the Japanese think nothing of committing suicide, and as a race it will be the same way. When the tide of battle commences to turn in our favour, their desperation we are going to see some amazing examples of this desperate action, terrific sacrifice, bloodshed and slaughter. To a nation that has never known the dishonor of defeat, to a nation as proud as Japan, defeat will be a stunning blow, the ensuing 'Loss of Face' will be catastrophic, and to avoid this, last minute rallies and stands every device known to man, every trick, every strategy will be utilized to turn the defeat into a last minute victory.

In fighting Japan, we are not fighting mere individuals, soldiers on the field of battle. We are fighting a fanatical race, a tradition of centuries, a religion, and a way of life completely different to ours. Such things are not relinquished easily by any nation, least of all by one such as Japan where failure in this effort means the complete loss of everything she now desires and requires to enable her to fit in this world as the ruler or at least a respected equal. These things will not relinquish until every means fair and foul, has been exhausted and she has been beaten into object surrender by vastly superior men, machines, and will power.

Pity The Poor Horses

On Wednesday morning fourteen horses were found dead in a high school and made their way towards the tennis courts. They looked cold and hungry in the sub-zero weather which was experienced on that day. Snow lay hard packed on the ground and no food appeared in sight.

They would no doubt wander the back alleys in search of peelings and other scraps of food, finding an open gate they would walk into yards and start digging sharp hoofs into lawns in search of frozen grass. Irate housekeepers would then chase them with sticks, brooms and a few choice cuss words.

We can't blame the householder for protecting his property, which may have cost him many dollars and hours of labor to build, but we do blame the owners of these poor brutes for allowing them to wander hungry and homeless during the winter to be chased by humans and dogs alike.

In the spring you go into the hills and see them to town where they use them during the fine weather months. In the winter they are let loose to fend for themselves. If there was any pity for the dumb brutes the owners would spend a few dollars on hay and give them a decent feed. It's too bad there isn't an organization in town to give these poor beasts a good meal once in a while.

No Need For Apology

MR. HERBERT MORRISON, British Home Secretary and Minister of National Security, told the British people recently that they had no need to apologize to anyone for their three-year part in the war. His speech was in reply to "eristic shafts directed at Britain from various points of the compass," but not, he emphasized, from representatives of the conquered people of Europe, who live in Britain and know what is being done there. In his speech, Mr. Morrison drew attention to certain facts which it would be well for everyone to review occasionally. One of these facts is that Britain did not wait until she was attacked to enter the war in the cause of freedom. Neither did she suffer when France fell, and she remained the only barrier between Hitler and the conquest of the greater part of the globe. When she entered the war, and through the many critical periods that followed, Britain faced an enemy which was far superior in numbers and equipment. This situation existed, in fact, through every campaign in which British forces took part, until the most recent drive in Egypt. Yet they restored Abyssinia, inflicted heavy damage to the enemy in North Africa and by joining in the defence of Greece, gave the United Nations valuable time to prepare for other attacks. In the fighting in 1940 and 1941, over seventy per cent of the casualties suffered by troops of the British Empire, were among those from the United Kingdom.

Production Of War Material is greater than that of any other country in proportion to the population. Twenty-two million British men and women do full time work in vital war industries, while there are another two million voluntary and part-time workers. Although it has been said that Britain has reached the peak of production both in respect to labor and raw materials, Mr. Morrison reported that in September the output of war materials rose fourteen per cent, and the weight of aircraft increased by eighteen per cent. Since the major part of the raw materials are imported, the importance of the navy in this connection is great. The navy regularly patrols over 80,000 miles of trade routes and guards nearly 3,000 British and Allied merchant ships. It has escorted 120,000 convoys, and has brought 194 out of every 200 of the ships in these convoys safely to port. This has been done in addition to the many other wartime duties of the navy. Mr. Morrison also drew attention to the fact that eighty per cent of the war materials manufactured in England have been shipped overseas to the various fighting fronts. Here again, the navy has played an important part.

Have Reason To Be Proud In the air, too, the British have every reason to be proud of their record. In the Battle of Britain, the legend of the invincibility of the Luftwaffe was forever destroyed. The R.A.F. gained control then of the air over Britain, and has since been gradually extending that control deeper and deeper into the skies over Europe. The Royal Air Force, together with Dominion and Allied squadrons, destroyed over 10,000 Axis planes between September 1939 and July 1942. In another respect, Mr. Morrison also defended Britain's part in the war. This was in reply to critics who have said that Britain is in the way only to preserve the Empire. Here Mr. Morrison pointed out that the British had driven the enemy out of Ethiopia, and had restored that country to its rightful rulers and its own people. Because there have been some defeats and some admitted errors in judgment, Britain's part in the war has been loudly criticized in some quarters. However, it would be well for us all to remember the many odds which she has overcome, and the many months during which she stood alone and held firm to preserve the whole democratic way of life. Mr. Morrison did well to remind the people of Britain as well as her critics and admirers in other lands, of the magnificent part she has played so far in this war.

Children and grown-ups alike look forward to dinner as the important meal of the day. That meal can be made up of foods which crowd out the necessary units essential to good health, or it can, just easily, be one with an abundance of vitamins and minerals. An example of each type of dinner as follows:

DINNER

High Vitamin and Mineral Content	Low Vitamin and Mineral Content
Vegetable soup	Clear broth or consomme
Pot roast, carrots, onions	Pot roast (no vegetables)
Baked potatoes	Baked potatoes
Cabbage salad	White bread and butter
Brown bread and butter (whole wheat)	Jam pie (or tart)
Apple Betty	Tea
Milk

Mothers, unfortunately, often cater to the likes and dislikes of their children and omit the most necessary green or yellow vegetables. The habit of serving children nothing but potatoes with their meat, merely because of their family distaste for other types of vegetables is a great mistake. Only a small amount of vegetables, rich with vitamins and minerals, like Mary or Mary help to build firm bones and teeth, and healthy blood.

Children are usually very fond of pie, especially the sticky variety that is crammed with calories—and little else. Instead, why not plan a fruit pudding or simply serve plain fruit for dessert. The minerals contained in most fruits are valuable in protecting the child's body from disease. Besides, it's a saving on your sugar ration.

A mother who does not have made milk the dinner beverage. This is an excellent idea as the calcium requirements of the human body, and particularly children, are great, and too few of us drink as much milk as we should. Together with vegetables and fruit rich in vitamins and minerals, it makes a combination hard to beat.

The Thousand Days

Picture Shows What Canada Has Accomplished in Present Struggle

A short time ago in Toronto I sat in on the pre-view of a film produced by Associated Screen News that you must see when it reaches your local theatres.

For the first time is shown a complete picture of what the first Thousand Days of this War meant to every Canadian—and what has been accomplished by our nation in that time—as graphically portrayed. Gordon Sparling, the director, has tied together in an extraordinarily interesting 20 minutes, a picture that should give you pride much in your country—your neighbours and yourself—if you have done your duty.

As the picture nears its end you see Winston Churchill speaking to the Canadian Parliament—have a flashing series of war work activities in the largest machine gun factory in the world (Canadian), the second largest tank factory on earth in Canada—and didn't some Federal Minister say tanks couldn't be built here once?—factories producing a million shells a month—the greatest auto plants producing army vehicles, etc.

You will be proud that this Canada of ours, despite late starts and many stumbles, is doing so well. It is only possible through the united efforts of an aroused country who only need inspired leadership to go still further ahead.

This film is being rushed to all Canadian theatres, because it carries a heartening message that we need now.

It's not fiction—its facts. There's no love story—no mugging or hero—but all Canadians will be prouder still of the Dominion when they see what all parts of it are contributing to the war effort. The film runs 20 minutes—it seemed to be five minutes long because it was so interesting and vital.

Ask your local theatre when they'll show "The Thousand Days" and don't miss it—Pratt Kuhn.

Evidence was given recently that the human heart has walls that act like a bullet-proof gasoline tank in self-sealing a wound made by a bullet.

NEWS of your Army

Officers of the Canadian Army will henceforth have new regulation pattern dress jackets which will further economize on clothing materials. Box pleats are omitted from breast pockets, bottom pockets will be of the slit type, similar to those worn in civilian jackets and plain sleeves without built-on cuffs, except in the case of the Scottish pattern jacket which will retain the gauntlet pattern cut.

Every day of the week mail centers are called upon to strike out information contained to letters sent to prisoners of war in occupied countries. Canadians with next-of-kin held prisoners of war should procure a copy of "Regulations Concerning Communication With Prisoners Of War Intended Abroad" from Mr. F. C. Collins, Next-of-Kin Prisoner of War Branch, Department of National War Services, Ottawa, before writing to friends or relatives informed overseas.

The great majority of the wounds suffered by the Canadians at Dieppe who were taken aboard a floating dressing station, half mile off shore, were slight, according to Capt. R. Murray of Markdale and Kingston, Ont., who served at Dieppe with the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps. Most of them came aboard the ship cursing over their bad luck at being put out of action. Those who could help but who could not return to the raid were kept busy helping to care for additional wounded.

The men and women of Canada's Armed Forces may now see the latest talking pictures in their own barracks. The days of the "first run" pictures are over for the services, as now the motion picture industry will provide "first run" movies on 16 millimeter film for current use.

The scope of training in the Canadian Women's Army Corps will be widened and a new basic training centre at Kitchener, Ontario, will have a cook's course from which it is expected thirty girls a month will graduate. Forty drivers will be graduated from there each month in addition to clerks, etc. MacDonald College at St. Anne de Bellevue, P.Q., will be an Advanced Training Centre as well as a school for the graduation of approximately 50 officers a month. Plans are under way to train 450 girls a month at the basic training centre at Vermilion, Alberta.

Dobbin has enlisted. Dobson has been put to use at Petawawa Military Camp to relieve mechanized equipment on short hauls thereby effecting considerable economy in gasoline and rubber. Experienced teamsters have been selected from the camp personnel.

Promoted from the rank of Major, Lieut.-Col. Ralph S. Carey, formerly Assistant Army Examiner at Winnipeg, has been appointed to the Directorate of Personal Services at National Defence Headquarters. Lt.-Col. Richard Barton Sharpe, formerly of Windsor and Whitby, Ont., is now in charge of all A and B class vehicles under the jurisdiction of the Directorate of Mechanical Maintenance of the Master-General of Ordnance Branch, Ottawa. Brigadier Norman A. Gianelli, of Toronto, and former D.A.A. and Q.M.G. at M.D. 10 headquarters, Winnipeg, has been appointed to command an Army Tank Brigade which is in training at Camp Borden.

The Information Services at National Defence Headquarters are now reorganized with Joseph W. G. Clark as Chief of Information Armed Forces, H. C. Howard of Montreal, Director of Information for Naval Services, G. H. Sallans of Montreal, Director of Information for Army and Gerald M. Brown of Toronto, Director of Information for the R.C.A.F.

Work of the London fire brigade photographic unit which operated during the blitz is to go on display so that Britons may see how their fire fighters carried on during air raids.

Here's the Answer to Your Question

If you cannot get Crown Brand Syrup from your favourite grocer now and then, here is the reason. Because "Crown Brand" in addition to its other uses is being very generally used to help supplement the supply of sugar in Canadian homes, the demand has increased tremendously.

Though there has been a much greater amount of Crown Brand syrup produced this year, even this increased supply cannot cope with the shortage of millions of pounds of sugar.

Don't hoard...buy normally...we are making every effort to supply the increased demand, and your grocer will do his best to fill your needs.

QUOTE IMPOSSIBLE

Sir Stafford Cripps is credited with saying in an interview that the key to the whole crisis in India is found in Gandhi's adherence to a policy of non-violence. An Indian government that was pledged to pacifism, and might even make peace with the Axis, could not be countenanced by Britain while she is waging a life-and-death struggle.

GERMAN ARMY SABOTAGED EVERYTHING OF VALUE IN TOBRUK BEFORE RETREATING

Tobruk — The Germans left only crums when they abandoned Tobruk to advancing British imperialists.

British United Press correspondent Henry Gorrell reports that the fleeing Germans sabotaged almost everything of value in the Libyan port, leaving the once-glistening town a grey-green shambles.

Its harbor is cluttered with half-sunken ships, a testimonial to the accuracy of British bombings.

Gorrell reports that only two companies of infantry were assigned to occupy Tobruk. The bulk of the British eighth army raced on past the port to head westward.

Before reaching Tobruk, Gorrell's party passed scores of abandoned German tanks, trucks and troop carriers. All had been sabotaged. Huge graveyard also were encountered, indicating the extent of German losses in this and past campaigns. Each graveyard held hundreds of crosses marked with the swastika.

The only Englishman found in Tobruk was John Patrick, a native of London. He had been captured at Mafra last June. Patrick told his rescuers that the Nazis treated the Italians like dirt and that English prisoners were given more privileges than the men of Mussolini.

Patrick declared:

"The Germans shot at any Italians who came near."

OUTPUT OF SHIPS

Canada Has Exceeded Production Attained During Last War

Ottawa — The munitions department said in a statement that Canada's steel cargo shipbuilding program "exceeds that of the last war by a wide margin, both in the number and deadweight tonnage of ships delivered and in the speed of construction."

During this year Canada has delivered more than 60 steel cargo ships totalling 634,000 tons deadweight, compared with 63 ships totalling 380,140 deadweight tons under the program started during the last war and completed in 1920, the department said.

One of the 10,000-ton ships built this year was delivered 88 days after the keel was laid. The fastest recorded time in the last war was 91 days for an 8,800-ton ship. Both records were made by Pacific coast shipyards.

HUGE ARMADA

Largest Convoy In History Carries Troops To Africa

New York — The United Nations invasion of French North Africa was "the greatest amphibious operation in history," Capt. Oliver Lyttleton, British minister of production, told the Association of National Advertisers.

The number of vessels in convoy was well over 500, plus more than 350 ships of war, he said.

FIELD MARSHAL SMUTS CALLS PINCER MOVEMENT IN AFRICA MOST AMAZING DEVELOPMENT

Plymouth — Field Marshal Jan Christian Smuts, prime minister of South Africa, called the Anglo-American pincer movements in North Africa "the most amazing transformation in the shortest possible time," and declared that "if this offensive policy is resolutely followed the African victory may yet become the prelude to the end."

The veteran statesman and soldier made the statement in a speech at a meeting at which Lord Astor, mayor of Plymouth, conferred the freedom of the city upon him.

Gen. Smuts said confidently that as a result of Gen. Sir Harold Alexander's race west and Lt.-Gen. Dwight Eisenhower's drive east "soon the whole of North Africa from the Nile to the Atlantic will be in Allied hands."

He warned that so far "we have merely deprived the enemy of valuable bases, but they must now become bases for us from which to operate and continue the offensive."

"It is clear from Hitler's last Munich speech," Smuts said, "that he builds his hopes for victory on the U-boat. The enemy U-boat campaign is still on the increase. It is evidently the last hope of Germany."

AIRBORNE INVASION

American Parachutists Stage A Long Flight

Allied Headquarters in French North Africa — American parachutists staged the longest airborne invasion in history when they flew in transport planes 1,500 miles non-stop from England to participate in the assault on Oran.

It was disclosed that the parachute troops, led by Col. Ed. Raff of New York, 34, and wearing camouflage battle suits, boarded planes and flew continuously for eight hours across Europe and the Mediterranean to land at dawn near Oran.

None of the parachutists except Raff knew where they started where they were going.

Maj.-Gen. Mark Clark, in discussing thefeat, said: "I called in Raff and told him what he planned and asked him if he thought it possible. He replied: 'We can do it. But first I want my own battalion to lead the job and I want personally to lead them!'

Both requests were granted. Despite the long night trip the troops arrived fighting fit.

AXIS TROOPS MOVING

The Pressure On Russia Will Be Believed

Ankara — Hitler was reported to be wheeling part of his great war machine westward from the Russian front to face the Anglo-American offensive moving toward his southern flank from the Atlantic end of the Mediterranean.

One report from a usually well-informed source said that preparations were being made hastily for billeting in Yugoslavia and Hungary 40 more German divisions withdrawn from Russia. This would constitute approximately a quarter of the entire Nazi forces now fighting the Soviets.

From Istanbul came a report from an experienced Balkan source that railroads through Rumania and Hungary were loaded heavily with German troops moving in the general direction of Greece and Italy. Another report which could not be confirmed said two new German divisions had entered Bulgaria.

RARE MINERAL

Important Discovery Is Made In Caribbean Area

Reports reaching Vancouver reveal the discovery of a deposit of the rare mineral — marmatite — on the Snowshoe plateau, 30 miles from Barkerville in the Caribou area of British Columbia. The mineral is used in processing steel.

According to the reports, the mineral was found on one of a group of mineral claims operated by the Caribou Scheelite Syndicate. One from the property is being forwarded to the laboratories of the department of mines at Ottawa.

Belgian Cross

Major-General H. F. G. Letson, M.C., E.D., of Vancouver, B.C., adjutant-general, was honored by the Belgian government at a brief ceremony in the Belgian legation at Ottawa, when he was awarded the Croix Militaire Belge, in appreciation of aid given the Belgian forces in this war.

CLOTHING FOR TROOPS

Ottawa — Clothing and textiles purchased for Canada's armed forces during the past four months had a value of $30,000,000, the munitions department announced. Some of the outstanding purchases included 1,400,000 battle dress blouses and trousers; 1,400,000 cotton and flannel shirts; 1,200,000 coats and jackets; 800,000 field caps and 500,000 communication overalls.

WERE AMBUSHED

Nazis In French Morocco Receive A Jolt

London — The Daily Express reported from Tangier that 12 members of the German armistice commission in French Morocco had been "ambushed" by French patriots and killed by machine-gun fire — the first shots in the French African campaign."

The despatch said the Germans prior to the ambush had been attending an emergency meeting called by Hans Auer, Nazi consul-general at Casablanca, because Auer had received information the Americans would land within a few hours along the Moroccan coast.

The Germans had filed into the Plaza hotel in Casablanca under the eyes of a Frenchman who immediately "called his collaborators to take up positions covering all exits from the hotel."

"The meeting did not break up till early morning," the despatch continued. "The commission members, some still smoking Auer's cigars, paused for a moment at the hotel main door."

"Suddenly shots came from across the street and from men hiding behind a parked car. The Germans dropped dead where they stood."

SHOW BIG INCREASE

Ottawa — Income tax collections during October amounted to $150,051,696, compared with $30,548,915 in October, 1941 — a net increase of $89,302,781 — it was shown in figures released by Revenue Minister Gibson.

Girls Invade Railway Yards

With girls grooming locomotives at Victoria, B.C., it's not surprising to find 18-year-old Agnes Gaething (above) checking cars in the Canadian Pacific Railway yards at Moose Jaw, Sask. Her first job since leaving university, Agnes, attired in bulky overcoat and pair of shoes, braces the elements as she tramps through the yard jotting down the numbers of cars, checking seals and performing other functions in that former stronghold of masculinity — the railway switch yards.

HITLER MAY HAVE TO WITHDRAW FROM RUSSIA AS THE PRESSURE OF ALLIED FORCES INCREASES

Allied success in North Africa and aerial bombardments, coaling facilities, arsenals, barracks and a hospital, all protected by vast fortifications.

"It was large enough to hold all the fleets of continental Europe. There was even a lake, well stocked with edible fish, to say nothing of a productive hinterland which could be called upon for the necessary food supplies. In this way it was even superior to Gibraltar, which has always had to import all its supplies."

"We also saw a big seaplane port and an airfield, as well as a special dock for submarines. Nature has taken a hand in making it well-nigh invincible."

The foregoing sound like a place that the Germans could easily hold against attack from the sea, if they got there first with enough men. The land defences of Bizerte, however, are on the Libyan border and they are pointed at Italian Libya. Called the Berthone line, these defences are said to be even stronger than the Maginot line.

However, the Allies can move in behind the line, occupying Bizerte from the landward side, just as the Japanese did at Singapore. Thus it may soon become apparent that the African campaign is the beginning of the real second front which Russia wanted. Gen. Marian Kukiel, new war minister of the Polish government in London, recently predicted that when Hitler finds his position in Europe and Africa desperate, he will recall his armies from Russia and defend Germany from an invasion from the west.

GERMANS MARCHING THROUGH UNOCCUPIED FRANCE MEET WITH STONY RECEPTION BY POPULACE

London — The Daily Express in a despatch dated "on the French frontier," reported the French people in many places were "stupefied" when they learned Hitler had ordered Nazi troops to march through the unoccupied zone of their country.

The Germans, commanding billets wherever they went, were met with a frigid reception, the despatch said. As far as possible, it added, the invaders were ignored. Frenchmen would not speak to the Germans unless they had to and then they gave only the barest answers.

"There is a general move to hide valuables and in the country live-stock," the despatch continued. "In town and village windows were shuttered as the invaders drove through. Vichy police barricaded and patrolled the main road crossings, but the French people mostly stayed indoors. Only habitual street-corner groups stoned the Germans."

Hitler's terms for immediate peace with Vichy, restoring to France all her 1939 continental territory except Alsace and Lorraine, were carried to Vichy by arch-collaborationist Pierre Laval from his Munich meeting with Hitler. It was reported in reliable continental circles with close Vichy connections.

The report was not confirmed.

The reported provisions, especially that involving the loss to the French of the two provinces, probably would prove decidedly distasteful and unacceptable to the whole French nation.

Most reliable Vichy circles reported Laval, who has consistently favored the Germans, had nevertheless rejected a military alliance with Germany. Informants from the former unoccupied area represented Pétain as not yet decided on his course, but the Vichy radio (now obviously under the domination of the Germans) broadcast that both Pétain and Laval had indicated their intention to remain in office and continue the policy they followed before the Germans extended their hold.
